DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because in Figure 7, a detail which appears to be 6d is cut off, and not completely legible. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

Art Unit: 3765

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

3. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Page 5, line 24, the phrase "arrow A in Figure 2" is incorrect since there is no detail A to be found in Figure 2.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-6, 9, 14, 17, 19, 22, 24, 27, 29, 32, 34, 37, and 39 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Walls (3443370).

Walls teaches an apparatus (Figure 1) for producing a yarn including a reciprocating twisting state adapted to simultaneously twist multiple slivers to produce multiple twisted strands, with multiple rollers (12, 13) arranged to move reciprocally along the axis of rotation of the roller so as to impart twist, and a system (gearing; altering the power provided to the gearing) which controls the rotational speed and transverse reciprocal movement of the rollers, imparting varying degrees of twist to the strands along the length of the structure (Figure 5), the apparatus having movable, multiple guides (32, 37, 38) with varying path lengths and drafting means before the twisting arrangement.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 7, 8, 15, 16, 25, 26, 30, 31, 35, and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Walls.

Walls essentially teaches the invention as detailed above, but fails to specifically teach utilizing a computer to control the device. It would have been obvious, however, to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to have utilized such a computer control, so as to more exactly and easily control the apparatus. Computer controls are well known in the art, and the ordinarily skilled artisan would have obviously known to utilized computer controls, so as to more efficiently operate the apparatus by saving energy, controlling twist, or monitoring production.

8. Claims 13, 18, 23, 28, 33, and 38 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Walls in view of Shigeyama et al (6655122).

Walls essentially teaches the invention as detailed above, but fails to specifically teach utilizing at least one guide to introduce a core filament into at least one of the slivers before the twisting phase, which Shigeyama teaches (Figures). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to have utilized such a device, so as to provide strength to the resultant yarn. Core yarns are well known, and the ordinarily skilled artisan would have known the benefits of providing a core and known to do such.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Hirao (5094068), Miller (2577793), and Australian Patent (26099/67) all teach what is well known in the art.
